The Hayes Eulogies in the Ohio General Assembly

Will Long Be Remembered By All Who Heard Them.

Legislation Has Lagged This Session Ow ing to the Slowness of the Committees Bill to Abelish Capital Punishment-A New Tax Bill-Bill to Prevent the Waste of Natural Gas.

COLUMBIA, Jan. 24, 1893, On Jan. 12 a gentleman, whose whiten beard, sprightly step and erect bearing would have attracted attention any where, walked out of the hall of the house, down the stone steps and out on his way to the union station.

On. Jan. 19, exactly one week later. in that same room from which this man had gone so short a time before, were offered tributes and eulogies in his honor, that seldom fall in the memory of the dead of this or any other land. Many of the members crowded about Rutherford B. Hayes, as he stood in the lobby of their assembly room on the 12th, and many more rose to their feet on the 19th to add their brief but eloquent words to the memory of the great man whose remains then lay in state in the city of I remont.

The eulogies and orations that were delivered in both house and senate on the death of the ex-president, served more than to honor the dead; they taught the members not only that there were many things about this great man that were worthy of emulation, but that there had been all these days a latent force, sometimes called true oratory, concealed in the bosoms of the members of the Seventieth general assembly that had hitherto been unknown even to themselves.

In the senate the great oration of Senator Nichols will always be remembered by those who were fortunate enough to hear it.

But it was in the house that the great outburst took place. Democrats and Republicans vied with each other in paying the proper tribute to the life and haracter of General Haves.

Mr. Aldrich, a Democrat, who repre sents Mr. Hayes' county, made a most excellent address in which he showed the worth of the general as a neighbor and friend. Especially was he an encourager of the young man. "Many times have I seen him," said the speaker, "take a young man by the hand after he had made some effort in a public way and say, 'My friend, you have done well.'"

Mr. Reiter, another Democrat and young man, presented a most carefully prepared and most highly eulogistic oration. He treated of Mr. Hayes' character from the standpoint of a lookeron and observer, as he had not a personal acquaintance. Messrs. Harshbarger, Bearid, Bruck and Winn, all Democrats, added their testimony in the same strain

Among the Republicans Mr. Holcomb had the only set speech; it was a worthy tribute to the noble character extolled. Mr. McGrew, Mr. Bloch, Mr. Haskell, Mr. Pudney, Mr. Wood, Mr. Griffin, Mr. Strehli, Mr. Llewellyn and several other Republicans touched upon various lessons to be derived from the patriotism, the manliness, the unselfishness and the uprightness of life of the ex-president.

This occasion was one of the most inspiring that ever transpired in the old statehouse, for Mr. Hayes was the first public man that has died while the legislature was in sesssion, and the oratory that his death provoked will be remem bered as one of the things to tell about to future generations.

Legislation Has Lagged

ever since the prepant session has been on deck. It is had get committees to work. "I have been here now four years," said a member the other day, and I have never known it to be so hard to get the committees together before.' The death of Mr. Haves has served to intensify this already existing feeling.

The most important bill introduced the past week was that

To Abolish Capital Punishment. Mr. Reeve, of Ashtabula, has brought the measure before the house and already it has met with much approval from the members. If it should pass, capital punishment will be relegated to the rear and murderers will be confined in the penitentiary for life, with no chance for a pardon unless it is afterwords found that they are innocent.

An Old Chestnut. A bill has been introduced in the house to provide for an inspection of stallions. It is necessary to have a stallion bill every year or the session of the legislature is not a success. But the complication that this bill is already in is rather laughable. It was figured out that under its provision at least $8,000 a year might be brought into the state treasury. It so happens that the governor gets $8,000 a year, and some wag immediately said that this stallion bill would pay the governor his wages. This was printed in an innocent way in a newspaper and a big laugh has been raised at the bill that may result in its defeat. The idea that the governor of the great state of Ohio is to get his salary from the inspection of stallions, is a little too much for the æsthetic tastes of even Ohio legislators. But those members of the assembly who say that the Dow tax money is blood money, will have to draw their first month's salaries from money that was raised from that law. The first installment is already in the state treasury.

A New Tax Bill is now in the hopper. Mr. Welch has drawn a measure making all notes, drafts and mortgages not listed for taxation on the first Monday in April, the property of the state. The objects of this bill are much more radical than was the famous Clapp bill that the house passed last year, but which couldn't again go through the same operation. After a note or mortgage has become the property of the state, the payee may pay but 40 per cent, of the face value and thus reclaim his paper. In other words it makes every maker of these papers a detective to see that they are listed for taxations. The result of this would, of course, make him pay a higher rate of interest, equal interest now charged and the taxes. The bill will scarcely become a law this year. To Prevent the Waste of Natural Gas-At last a move has been made to save the natural gas product of the state from waste. Duls have been introduce to stop the piping of this product from the state; to stop the use of flambo or huge lights; and to compel street lamps to be turned out in the day time. These cteps seem to be absolutely necessary as the gas is giving out in so many places or the pressure is lessened, and yet the people who seem to be most interested go right on in their extravagance and waste. The supreme court of Indiana has decided that their state may protect the natural gas product, and the law prohibiting the piping from the state stands upon the statute books today. An Important Health Bill. An important bill is one to give the state health board almost supreme powers in the regulations of local quarantines and local boards of health. The measure is very far-reaching, indeed, and will probably find much opposition before it becomes a law.

A bill has been introduced in the senate to provide for Uniform Examinations for Teachers all over the state. The questions are to be made up by the state board in Columbus and mailed to the county boards every month. Any body convicted of giving these questions away or selling is to be heavily fined.

This legislature may go down in history as the investigating legislature. There are two or three resolutions already under consideration to investigate several railroads; one has already been investigated. It is said that a Columbus asylum needs investigation, and the canals may be brought out on the carpet before a committee. Last year the swamplands were investigated. The fish committee is investigating affairs on the lake, and a committee will probably be appointed to investigate electric lighting for Columbus publie buildings. And all of this is outside of the regular committee work, which is a continuous investigation from first to last.

He's an Exception. Ex-Representative Washburn, of Elyria, was in the city a few days ago. Heis over seventy years of age, but active and hearty. He is one of the trustees of the Mansfield reformatory and his heart and soul is in his work. The writer had a pleasant chat with him a few days ago and he related some of his newspaper experiences which happened during his forty years as editor of the Elvria Republican.

"I got into the newspaper business accidentally," said he, "I had just been admitted to the bar and had practiced but three years, when I made a temporary arrangement to take charge of the paper for a year. At the end of the year the office burned up and I thought I would embark in the business myself. I bought an outfit and began on my own account. For forty years I carried on that paper and in that time I never asked a man to take my paper nor to advertise in it. I always said that when I was seventy years old I would quit and I did. A year ago I sold out and retired from active work, doing only such philanthropic work as I find opportunity to do. I am very much interested in this reformatory at Mansfield, and when I was a member of the house I had the good fortune to be able to do much as possible at its inception."

Draped In Mourning. The interior of the rotunda has been appropriately draped in mourning in honor of the death of General Hayes and a most artistic effect has been

The New Railroad Maps have not all been sent out yet. There was a shortage in the supply of cardboard and the statesmen who were unlucky enough to be on the list below the fortieth member of the house have not received their maps as yet, while all above that number and all of the senators have. A move is on foot to do away with the cardboard maps wholly or partially and have these maps mounted on muslin and folded for the pocket.

The member who was about to introduce a bill to abolish the circuit court, finds himself confronted with the constitution, so that he will not thus, distinguish himself.

M. Barboux Besumes His Argument is Defense of the De Lesseps.

Paris, Jan. 25.—The interest in the Panama trial increases as the end comes near. The approaches to the court were crowded as soon as the gates were opened.

When M. Charles De Lesseps, M. Marius Fontane and M. Cottu were confer with their counsel before the resumption of proceedings. While the consultation was in prog-with his fellow-defendants. He did not, however, join in the conference. AL. Charles De Lesseps seemed to be earnestly advising his counsel with frequent and emphatic gestures.

Maitre Barboux resumed his argument in behalf of his clients. He indicated no new line of defense, but proceeded to justify the assurances which the directors of the Panama Canal company have given to the shareholders and the public in relation to the Panama enterprise.

M. Barboux said that the payments made to the press to obtain the approval of the newspapers for the Panama en-terprise could not be held to constitute swindling. The original estimates of all great undertakings were always ex-ceeded. The Manchester and the Corinth canals might be mentioned as instances. Charles De Lesseps, continued M. Barboux, inherited the respect in which his father had so long been held. His arrest has caused a feeling of stupefication at home and abroad. As to any fault which might be found with the plans adopted for the canal, M. Barboux pointed out the conflict between the opinions of engineers on the subject, some advocating a level canal and others a lock canal. What could the company do, he asked, in face of these recommendations of equally eminent Ferdinand De Lesseps had never played the double part attributed to him. He had not concealed the mistake made in the original estimated cost of the canal. In 1884 he had told a general meeting of shareholders that 600,000,000 francs more will be required to finish the canal. His statement had been so explicit that those who per-sisted in misunderstanding it had only themselves to blame.

UNIO MURDERERS PROVIDED FOR. To Be Given the Chair of Death, Where

by Wire They Will Shuffle Off. COLUMBUS, Jan. 25.—Senator Frank Spencer announces that he has about completed a bill providing for the killing of criminals condemned to death by electricity, instead of hanging, as heretofore. The bill is modeled, of course, upon the lines of the law now in force in New York, and provides for the build ing of an execution chamber at the penitentiary, together with authority to purchase the necessary equipment for the same. In other respects the law will remain the same as it is at present except that the clause as to the limiting of the number of witnesses will be made more stringent. It may be that there will be a change having for its purpose the keeping secret the dates of execution of sentence. This can be accomplished by com pelling judges to make it optional with the warden when to carry out the sen tence within a certain prescribed period In other words, a criminal could be sentenced to die between the 1st and 15th of January, and it would be within the scope of the warden's power to carry out the sentence on any day between the dates mentioned. There has been pending for some days a bill to repeal capital punishment, in-troduced by Captain Reeve, of Ashtabula. It has not been accorded the general favor that the author expected. Those who have discussed the matter of electric killing appear to indorse it, and the bill has a good chance of passing. It is not generally known that the first bill to authorize electrocution was introduced in the Ohio legislature, the author being Senator Rannells. The Spencer bill will have many of the features of that measure, which was too far in advance of public sentiment at the time of its introduction, and therefore failed.

OUR LEGISLATURE.

THOMAS IS URGENT AND VERY ACTIVE

Rowlen is Quiet and Dormant-Rokley Moving for Reputation-All the Latest of Interest in the Legislative Line.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 25 .- [Special.]-Representative Thomas seems to be the center now around which labor legislation revolves in the House. He falls into the place formerly occupied in that respect by Hon. John McBride, and later by Speaker Hysell, both of whom were miners. Mr. Thomas' only competitors on the floor are Mr, Carney, a glassblower of Findlay, who is a Republican, and Mr. Molten, a moulder of Saudusky, who is a Democrat. The latter evidently thinking that it is discreet for him to stand back in a Republican Legislature, has little to say Mr. Thomas secured last week the pass age of his bill to put in counter floors for the protection of mechanics in constructing a building. Now he is aglow with pride over his coal screening bill which he soon expects to go through the Senate and be come a law. Helping him on this is Campbell Miller, of Massillon, vice presi dent of the Ohio Miner's Association, who bas been indefatigable in behalf of the measure.

Representative Rowlen came in Mon day afternoon from his respite over Sun brought in they promptly asked leave to | day from legislative duties without bringing down anything new from Stari county. It was not known but what be would discover while at home some nev ress M. Eiffel entered and shook hands panacea for the ills buman flesh are beir to, or at least something to assuage the anguish of Stark county and Canton Repubs licans. But he is empty handed, Neverthe less; Rowlen is not sad, He is chipper and cheerful. If nothing goes amiss the bill be ing correctly engrossed and signed by the Speaker of the House and Senate Mr Rowlen will this week draw his $600 for expenses in the contest case. Then he will have ple three times a day.

Senator Eckley is very busy these days over insurance and other legislation. He is after the old charter companies that are not considered right. They do up things in the Senate in short order and Mr. Eckley wishes it distinctly understood that all proper legislation coming from the Stark county Representatives in the House he will put through the Senate on double quick time.

The canals come in for another exploiting this week and the music began today. They have it every year. Just now it is over Mr. Ferrell's proposition to abandon the Hocking canal. There are those who claim the canals are a useless burden and expense to the State; that there are deflex iencies to make up and that they cost two or three times more a year to maintain than they bring in as revenue. What is the use then, they say, as a business proposition to keep up a system that is a dead expense with no corresponding benefit. To this comes the reply that they are the patrimony of the people, that they help hold the railroads in check, that water ways are coming into repute again as the natural and economical means of transportation and more to the same effect So far the efforts to do away with the canals have resulted in many legislative scandals. Ten years ago one lobbyist in this connection went to the penitentiar and several members narrowly escaped Once more the effort to introduce electricity as the means of meeting out the death penalty to Ohio murderers is to be suggested to the Legislature. This time Senator Spencer will do it. His bill is nodeled after the New York law. In 1885

Senator Rannells, of Vinton county, tried the same thing but without success. An enlightened people clamor for something different from the disgusting and barbaric method known as "hanging by the neck." Another old idea is revived by Representative Griffia of Lucas county who wants the insane asylums of the state controlled by bi-partisan boards of from 6 to 12 for each institution who shall have absolute control of them. Ex Secretary of the State Poorman once was the factor of a novel plan to mass the charitable institutions of the State under one management. He wanted sort of a state "trust"

"combine" in asylums, etc. The scheme did not turn out nearly as well as the arbitration which resulted in giving Colonel Poorman $600 back fees in the Ryan-Poorman controversy last week.

Ex-Mayor Day of Alliance, Stricken Down Without Warning. Alliance Critic.

This morning John M. Day of East Prospect street, died of neuralgia of the heart after an illness of only a little over an hour.

He arose this morning at about 5:30 o'clock, and complained of not feeling well, and said his heart fluttered. He ate a very light breakfast and after it was over he was out doors about his residence sweeping snow, etc. At 10 o'clock he started to come down stairs, but became suddenly faint and sat down on the steps when about half way down and called to his wife to get the camphor, as he was ill. Mrs. Day hurried to him and passed bim on her way upstairs after the remedy. When she returned he was unconscious and had slipped down to the bottom of the stairs. He was picked up and placed in a chair and in a very few minutes was dead. He was 66 years old and the father of six children all of whom are living except a daughter, Mrs. Will Parthe. The rest of the children are Mrs. I. N. Griffith, of New Castle, Mrs. Joe McCounelt, Mrs. John Genthoits, Miss Florence, and Ralph Day, who is in Texas. A telegram was sent to Ralph this morning informing him of his father's sudden teath but it is feared that it will not each death but it is feared that it will not each ing informing him of his father's sudden death, but it is feared that it will not reach him in time for him to attend the funeral, for which the arrangements have not yet been completed, and will be announced tomorrow. The interment will take place in Alliance cemetery.

THE BONNOT COMPANY

Will Receive the Recommendation for the Contract for the Sewage Disposal Works.

The Sewer Commissioners held a meet ing Tuesday night. They drafted a recommendation which will be reported to the council next Monday night, in favor of Bonnot & Co. for the acceptance of their bid for machinery for the sewage disposal works. It was thought by th commissioners that this company's bid was the most acceptable in point of estimate and condition of their contract. Bonnot & Co. if they are awarded the con tract, will furnish a man for thirty days to operate the machinery, free of expense to the city. Various sewer matters were talked over.

I Am Proud

Dr. Johnston vissed his pittient at 2 o'clock list night and said there was no material change. Mr. Blaine slept more than he did a week ago, and when awake he was conscious. The doctor said by would not return during the night un less called for.

Sunday School Workers. The meeting of Sunday school superintendents held in the parlors of the Y. M. C. A., resulted in much good work, nearly all the schools being represented. After the purpose of the meeting was explained by Mr. C. F. Robel, the work of arranging for a county convention to be held on February 14 and 15, in connection with a meeting of the State executive board which will be held in Canton at that time. The Secretary was ordered to invite all the Sunday schools in the county to be represented at the convention by one or more delegates who will be furnished free entertainment. The work of organizing a superintendents Union in the city was then taken up.

Mr. J. F. Clark was elected president, and Prof. J. M. Sarver secretary of this union; there was also a committee appointed to draw up a constitution and present it at the next meeting which will be hisld on January 30, in the X. M. C. A. parlors, at which meeting all the superintendents are urged to be present. all the schools being represented. After
